SPOTLIGHT MY SONG

Starter campaign

2MCH BALL

Trap · Released July 25, 2025 · For fans of pradabagshawty and xaviersobased

Ball is already out, so this is a re-push campaign. The goal is to get new ears on it over the next two weeks, mainly through Instagram and TikTok, and send them to Spotify.

COVER ART REVIEW

What works

The silhouette against the bright window is strong. We shrank it down to the size people see while scrolling, and the shape still reads clearly. It feels mysterious and fits the underground lane.

What could be better

- The shadows are crushed. About a third of the image is pure black, so the hoodie detail disappears.
- There is no artist name or title on it, so anyone who sees it on its own won't know who it is.
- There's a small smudge in the sky near the top left.

What we did

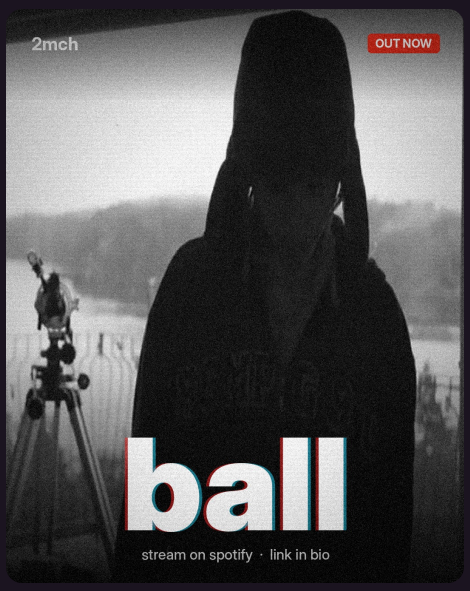

Since the song is out, keep the cover as is. Your promo graphics lift the shadows, clean the smudge, and put 2MCH and Ball front and center so every post builds your name.

Next time

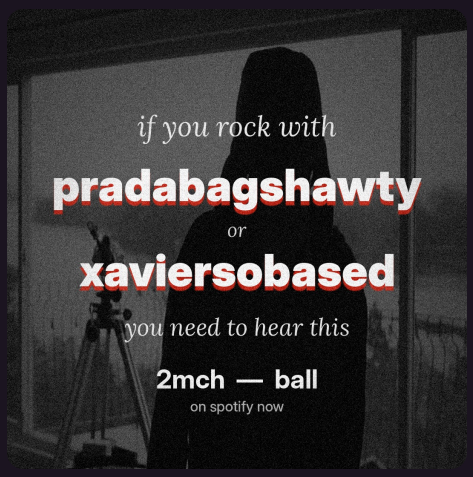

Upload covers at 3000 by 3000 pixels, and add your name somewhere small so the art works on its own.

TWO WEEK RE-PUSH PLAN

Post at the times your followers are most active. Instagram shows this under Insights. If you're not sure, evenings between 6 and 9 are a good start.

☐	Day 1	Reintroduce it Post the feed graphic. Pin it to the top of your profile and put the Spotify link in your bio.
☐	Day 2	Story push Post the story graphic with a link sticker to Ball on Spotify. Save it to a Highlight called Ball.
☐	Day 3	The hook clip Film a 10 to 15 second clip with the hardest part of Ball playing: you in the car, walking, or just the cover with the audio. Post it as a Reel and a TikTok.
☐	Day 4	Find your people Post the fans-of graphic. Then spend 15 minutes leaving real comments on posts from fan pages and artists in the pradabagshawty and xaviersobased scene. No spam, no links in comments.
☐	Day 5	Spotify Canvas In Spotify for Artists, add a 3 to 8 second looping video to Ball. Even a slow zoom on the cover works. It makes the song stand out in the app.
☐	Day 6	Playlists and reposts Send Ball to 5 small underground playlist curators and SoundCloud repost channels in your lane. Short, personal messages work best.
☐	Day 7	Thank the listeners Repost anyone who shared it and reply to every comment and DM.
☐	Days 8 to 10	New angle on the hook Post the hook again with a different visual. Try a reaction, a lyric on screen, or a clip of you making the beat.

- [ ] Days 11 to 13 — Let others use it
  Ask followers to use Ball in their own Reels and TikToks, and repost the best ones.

- [ ] Day 14 — Check the numbers
  Look at Spotify for Artists and Instagram Insights. Whatever got the most saves and shares, do more of that next week.

STREAMING READINESS CHECK

We listened to Ball and it's good to go. No changes needed.

AFTER THE TWO WEEKS

This is how labels keep an artist moving between drops. Do the same and every release starts stronger than the last.

1. Day 14: check your numbers. In Spotify for Artists, look at listeners, saves and where they came from. Note which post brought people in.
2. Weeks 3 to 6: keep the song alive. Post two or three times a week using what worked. A song does not stop being new just because release week ended.
3. Week 4: lock in the next drop. Pick your next song and a Friday release date six to eight weeks out.
4. Week 5: upload early. Get the next song to your distributor three to four weeks before release so you can pitch it to Spotify's editors.
5. Every drop: same playbook, better each time. Releasing on a steady schedule is what builds a fanbase. One song rarely does it alone.
